1. Communication Theory (20h)

In this course, we illustrate the importance of looking at culture and human behaviour to improve communication. We have selected several communication theories that take into account the consequences of the interactions among people who come from different cultural backgrounds and that have diverse cultural expectations. During this semester, we will focus on interpersonal communication.

2. Foreign language practice in English (20h)

This course prepares students to use English in a English professional context.

3. Society and Medias (10h)

In this course, students will learn English-speaking society and media through a variety of themes related to current events.
